Considering the benefits of a global SCI consumer organization

Join in the discussion – or come and listen, as we discuss the potential for a global collaboration between consumer organizations.

Venue and Time:

Le Meridien Hotel, Desire Hall, New Delhi, India
October 29, 2010
13:30 – 15:00

Agenda

Panel Chairperson

President Jane Horsewell, The European Spinal Cord Injury Federation

Panel Members

Professor Fin Biering-Sørensen, ISCoS
Associate Professor Apichana Kovindha, ASCoN
Professor Dajue Wang, China
Professor Ketna Metha, Nina Foundation, Mumbai, India

At this workshop we will discuss how the potential collaboration between Spinal Cord Injured consumer organizations, and collaboration between the organizations and Spinal Cord Injured healthcare professionals could be usefully extended beyond the geographical boundaries of Europe.

Each panel member will make a brief presentation giving a short account of the situation in their own country/region/organization regarding any contact with consumer organizations. The next stages of the discussion will consider potential benefits of active and vocal consumer organizations with consideration for social and cultural differences.

The format of this workshop is a discussion amongst a panel comprised of healthcare professionals from ISCoS and ASCoS and a global representation of SCI consumers, the discussion will encourage audience participation.
